

Good Lessons from Bad Examples

Robyn Huck
CCEF National Conference 2018

The slide features a background split diagonally from the top-left to the bottom-right. The upper-right portion is yellow, and the lower-left portion is light grey. A thin orange border frames the entire content area. The text is centered in the yellow region.

When was the last time you learned a good lesson?

What would you consider a bad example?

Purposes for using “bad” examples

- Discovering we are like them
- Learning discernment
- Increasing in awe of God
- Growing in thanks for Christ

An open Bible with aged, yellowed pages. The text is in a traditional serif font, likely a King James Version. The book is open to a page with several columns of text. Overlaid on the center of the image is the text 'Wisdom literature', 'Proverbs', 'Ecclesiastes', and 'Job'.

Wisdom literature

Proverbs

Ecclesiastes

Job

The doctrine of the two paths

Psalm 1

Proverbs 1:1-7, 2:1-12

Godly wisdom
*Living well as one who belongs to
God*

Worldly wisdom
Self preservation

Christological wisdom

Participation in the divine nature

Christological wisdom

1 Corinthians 1:18-30

James 3:13-18

“Wisdom in Scripture is always set off against
its nemesis—folly.
Both voices call to us.”

- Daniel Ebert

"One is always in danger
of misinterpreting
the biblical material or,
having interpreted well,
of denying the confession
in life."

- Daniel Ebert

Student of wisdom

Current
you

Future
you

Student of wisdom

Student of wisdom

Sources of wisdom lessons

- Hearing or reading
- Witnessing others
- Personal experience
- Divine teaching

Counseling trajectory

Hear the summary

Zoom in for the details

Pull out for the big picture

Retell the summary

Scripture use trajectory

Describe the context

Read or retell the story

Explain cultural differences

Highlight pertinent parts

Draw out wisdom & connect

Ripple effect

The Goal: To embrace
living as a student
under God's tutelage, humbly desiring to learn Christological wisdom.

Good Lessons from Bad Examples

Robyn Huck
CCEF National Conference 2018